Text 1 Email

Read the first part of this email from Tom to his friend David.

Answer questions 01 to 03.

Hi David

1 Hope you are well and that you, like me, are enjoying the time off from college. The school year was great, but we seemed to have so much extra work in English. I found geography less time-consuming but also difficult!

2 At the moment I am working part-time in a restaurant washing dishes. It's a very busy place but it's good to get some experience of the world of work. There are a couple of other people from college who are also working there and we all agree that it's a friendly place to work. I am only working two shifts a week so I have had time to relax and spend time with my family too.

Tick (✓) the box next to the correct answer for questions 01 to 03.

0 1 What subject did Tom think involved a lot more additional work during the school year?

A English

B Geography

C Maths

[1 mark]

0 2 How often is Tom working at the restaurant?

A Occasionally

B Part-time

C Weekends only

[1 mark]

0 3 What is the main point of paragraph 2?

A Tom is telling David about his job.

B Tom is giving David advice about what sort of job to get.

C Tom is telling David how busy the restaurant is.

I am also putting more time into the town's library project this summer. I have been volunteering at the local library to help out with its redevelopment. As you may know, it was closed due to the damage from last year's big storm. It has been great to support with planning the reopening, which is going to take place later this month on the 27th. Will you be able to come? The event starts at 11.00 am and the opening ceremony takes place at 12.00 pm. If you can make it, we can meet in the new library café at around 11.15 am. I think you would enjoy seeing how the library has improved.

It would be great to see you there. Let me know what you think.

Speak soon,

Tom

Tick (✓) the box next to the correct answer for questions 04 to 06.

Text 2 The Old Trafford Museum and Tour Centre

Read the information in the first part of the advertisement.

Answer questions 07 to 10.

Go Behind the Scenes and Walk in the Steps of Greatness

Book your Stadium Tour Today

- 1 The Old Trafford Museum and Tour Centre has won the award for Manchester's Large Visitor Attraction of the Year. Get closer to the world of Manchester United football team and share 130 years of football in the museum, in the dynamic city of Manchester.
- 2 Go behind the scenes at Old Trafford – the home of Manchester United football team – and see the stadium through the eyes of famous Manchester United players. The stadium tour takes approximately 80 minutes and runs 7 days a week from 09:40 to 16:30 except on match days. Experience the dizzy heights of the Sir Alex Ferguson Stand, dedicated to the team's famous ex-manager. Visit the press room where the manager makes his statement after every home game. Open the door of the players' dressing room and experience the atmosphere. Every moment will seem to carry the sound of 76,000 fans in your ears, especially when you step out of the players' tunnel and follow in the footsteps of so many legendary players.
- 3 Everyone who goes on the stadium tour can get a certificate. After your tour, don't forget to collect your certificate from the customer service desk in the Megastore.

Text 3 Children and Social Media

Read the first part of the article.

Answer questions 15 to 19.

By Charles Hymas

- 1 Teenagers are spending up to 12 hours online a day, mindlessly swiping through social media without looking at any single piece of content for more than a few seconds, a unique study has found. For the first time researchers used technology to record minute by minute what young people actually do on their smart phones – and were shocked by the compulsive way they “wasted” hours scrolling through social networking sites.
- 2 A 17-year-old girl called Olympia was typical in terms of her use of social media. In one 24-hour period she spent 3.3 hours on Snapchat, 2.5 hours on Instagram, 2 hours on FaceTime, 2.4 hours on WhatsApp and 1.8 hours on Safari – a total of 12 hours.
- 3 Although children from lower-income households were potentially more likely to engage in such relentless consumption of social media, Damon de Ionno, managing director of research group Revealing Reality, said: “We are seeing more and more relatively highly-educated girls from good backgrounds who are also spending this sort of time on screen.”
- 4 Olympia, who was revising for her exams during the study, told the researchers the only place she could relax was in the bath because she could not take in her phone – although she added she would take it in if it was water-proof. Others admitted they fell asleep at night while on their phones.

Tick (✓) the box next to the correct answer for questions 15 and 16.

1 5 Below is a list of statements given in paragraph 1.

Which statement is correct?

A Research has concluded that teenagers are online for as much as 12 hours a day.

B Teenagers look at content online for some minutes before moving on.

C Time spent online by teenagers is used productively.

[1 mark]

1 6 What is the main point of paragraph 3?

A To persuade the reader how damaging social media can be.

B To explain how only those with little or no education are consuming too much social media.

C To inform the reader that some young people with a good education are also spending a lot of time online.

Answer questions 20 to 24.

- 5 Among comments from the young people to the researchers were: “I use it all the time because it is always there”; “I would feel lost without [my phone]”; “It’s pretty much mindless”; “It is a waste of time” and “I am not really engaging with anyone or anything.” The consequences were that they missed out on not only other activities – whether sporting or educational – but also face-to-face communication by conducting relationships almost entirely through instant messaging or emojis.
- 6 “It is a dumbed down way to communicate with someone but it is a function of the smart phone because it’s hard to write prose that says what you mean on such a device. It’s easier to press a like button or send an emoji,” said Mr de Ionno.
- 7 “People need to reassess their relationship with smart phones otherwise it can become all-consuming where the world and all relationships are seen only through the phone.”
- 8 As a result of the study, one of the research team’s youngest members, a school-leaver, was so shocked by what he saw that he deleted all his social profiles apart from two messaging apps.

2 0

In paragraph 5 the researchers mention other comments young people have made about using their phones.

Which four things do they mention?

Tick (✓) the boxes next to the correct answers.

A They mention how social media can be mindless.

B They mention how expensive their smart phone is.

C They talk about how they are not really communicating with anyone properly on their smart phones.

D They talk about how their smart phones help them to find their way home.

E They mention how much time-wasting is involved.

F They use their phones continually due to their constant presence.

[4 marks]

2 1

From paragraph 6, what makes communication quicker on a smart phone but less meaningful?

[2 marks]

2 2

In paragraph 7 Mr de Ionno says 'People need to reassess their relationship with smart phones'.

Text 4 Cherry Blossoms in Japan

Read the first part of this article.

Answer questions 25 to 26.

By Danielle Demetriou

- 1 In Japan, cherry blossoms are celebrated during picnics. They are painted with great care in many artworks. They are referred to as a sign of the short-lived nature of life.
- 2 Welcome to Japan's pink and modern world of cherry blossoms. It is impossible to think of springtime in Japan without an ideal image of a sea of cherry trees overflowing with perfect pink blooms instantly coming to mind.
- 3 As spring approaches, the entire nation turns a shade of pink. Months before the flowers arrive, retailers switch into sakura (cherry blossom) mode and start to acquire the items available. Supermarkets are filled with plastic cherry flowers and new cherry-flavoured products such as cherry-blossom-and-butter flavoured crisps and cherry Pepsi. The countdown to excitement is heightened further by watching the televised Cherry Blossom Forecast which offers a petal-by-petal analysis of the advance of the blooms – known as the cherry blossom front – as the blossoms sweep from the south to the north of the Japanese group of islands.
- 4 When the blooms actually arrive, it is time to enjoy one of the nation's all-time favourite pastimes – hanami, which literally translates as 'looking at flowers' and refers to flower appreciation picnics under the blooms. Every year, different groups in society – from office workers and students to housewives and grandparents – take part in hanami picnics (some civilised, some noisy) in every corner of the country.

Answer questions 27 to 31.

Why are they so popular?

- 5 The flowers are deeply symbolic: their short-lived existence taps into a long-held appreciation of the beauty of the brief nature of life, as echoed across the nation's cultural heritage. The blossoms also, quite literally, signify new beginnings, with April 1 being the first day of both the financial and academic year in Japan. In a nutshell? The cherry blossoms are not just pretty pink flowers: they are the floral expression of Japan's most fundamental cultural and philosophical beliefs.

When to visit

- 6 Unlike Japan's famously reliable public transport system, the cherry blossoms are not as punctual as tourists might like. Some years they arrive early following a spell of warm weather; other years, chillier temperatures make them late or downpours bring an early departure.
- 7 But the first blossoms generally appear in Okinawa in January and slowly move up the islands, passing through Japan's densely-populated central districts at the beginning of April (including Tokyo and Kyoto), before progressing further north and hitting Hokkaido in the north in early May.

The best locations for cherry blossom viewings

Tokyo

8 The capital is a good starting point. There are numerous picnic-friendly locations – in parks and alongside rivers – that have been planted in recent centuries with carefully laid out clusters of cherry trees, to dramatic effect.

9 Highlights include Ueno Park, one of Japan's oldest and most famous public spaces, which attracts epic-sized crowds to admire its 1000-plus blooming cherry blossoms. A more sedate alternative is Shinjuku Imperial Garden, a surprisingly serene and beautifully maintained park a short walk from the neon glare of Shinjuku, with 1500 cherry trees and expanses of lawn.

Kyoto

10 The famed ancient capital of Japan provides a perfectly dreamy backdrop for cherry blossom viewing. The best flower spots include Maruyama Park, a great place for picnickers from day to night; the Kamo River, lined with large cherry trees; and the bloom-filled Imperial Palace Park.

3 2

In paragraph 9 the writer describes how Ueno Park 'attracts epic-sized crowds'.

What does this mean?
